COMMUNICATIONS

Hi! I am Sam Robinson! I have been in the PR industry for over 13 years working in PR agencies, with great brands such as Emperors Palace, LG Electronics, Eaton South Africa and Kimberly Clark. I have decided that now is the time to take a different direction in my PR journey. This next step is where I take everything I have learnt over the years and add my own personal touch to help businesses and brands achieve great PR results. I want to be part of your team, getting up close and personal with your business, understanding exactly what you do and what you would like to achieve. Over the years I have developed extensive relationships within the industry that allow me to call on suppliers and partners to extend my services where required. If you are looking for a personal, trusting and long-term relationship, with very little admin while achieving great results, why not call me and let's meet for coffee!
